

PRE-BIRTH

Question on Prebirth Conditions - March 10, 1994

Question: There are many 'disciplines,' such as re-birthing and regression techniques that have established subconscious memories of incidences during the pre-birth period. While, in answer to an earlier question, you seemed to indicate that the soul was normally incarnated during or immediately after the birth process, how do these pre-birth memories occur?

Answer: In most cases, and even in this business of entering an incarnation, there are other circumstances there is a connection well established, even before conception. So, what we are talking about is energy and the drawing to one, through the use of energy, intuition, soul growth... all those things that generate opportunities in a given incarnation for experiences, expansion and growth. So, it is as if there is a line of energy that connects the infant-to-be with his or her prospective parents or circumstances as an avenue into the world, because parenting and parenthood do change, sometimes, as you know.

So, in the course of all of that, there are also the contracts one makes as to how one will proceed to experience the realization of unity with God. That is truly the purpose of most incarnations. (More souls are coming to serve humankind in so many ways.)

So, there are experiences that take place as information that lead to impressions, even before conception, we would agree with that. Now, as conception takes place, the energy becomes more solidified and as that increases, as the gestation period goes on, there is an expansion of AWARENESS, on the soul level, called pre-birth.

Question: O.K., you have the connection, but the soul that is coming in is still within Spirit form. Then, does it really ABSORB so much at the soul level, to that extent, during that time?

Answer: We would prefer to use awareness, rather than absorption and so, let us go back to the beginning. Look at this to understand this spiritual description of the birth and pre-birth experience as levels of energy and as PERCEPTIONS. In other words, through the flow of creativity, intuition, overview and a soul in its wisdom, the connection is made to those birth circumstances that initiate an incarnation and bring about an opportunity for the realization, in human form, of the realization of the unification with God... a realization of unity.

It is a great opportunity to understand the illusionary nature of earth. But along with the illusion, and the acceptance of that, comes judgment, perceptions and attitudes. So naturally, even in pre-birth, because you have begun to accept the concept of illusion, those things begin to take place. So, even in Spirit, the focus becomes the ACCEPTANCE of what is to come for learning.

Question: Its still a mind-set, so to speak.

Answer: Yes. You are accepting humanhood-to-be and the conditions and situations that go along with that. So, is there a humanizing of the spiritual experience? In a sense, yes, pre-birth. Because it is such a MAGNITUDINOUS thing to do that there is a great deal of preparation. It is a wonder that anyone comes, but the DRAW to earth and the necessity to continue to work things out is very great, for many.

So, it is ALL a spiritual experience and it is all a level of awareness, i.e., there is never the separation from God, EVER. But it is the ACCEPTANCE of illusion that creates judgment, that creates perceptions and attitudes about life, and decisions, pre-birth. It is one of the many reasons why we have so strongly talked about the delivery room experience (Ref. Chapter 4). Because these experiences can assist in ameliorating, in balancing pre-birth perceptions with the birth experience so that there can be an opportunity, if the pre-birth experience has led to decisions of being unwanted, of hardship of life, of those kinds of early decisions that create strong life problems. With the positive delivery experience, some adjustment can be made on the spot to readjust some of those decisions, so that they will be less impacting. And, of course, if your pre-birth experience is one of love, support, nurturing and the positivity of life, a positive delivery experience can only reinforce that.

So, all of that is very critical, BECAUSE of the acceptance of illusion. When that is no longer necessary, human experience before, during and after birth, will be very different. And that is VERY much what the shift in consciousness of mankind is about, in very simplified terms. The TOTAL CHANGE of the life experience, the JOY of earth as opposed to the trauma of earth and why being surrounded by love, care, nurturance and beauty as well as the spiritual concepts of gratitude, well-being, self-love as love of God, loving the being within and without, loving that which is divine. All of those things, coupled with forgiveness, leads to a total shift in consciousness.

But it is the acceptance of illusion that creates all of what you ask about, from a SPIRITUAL perspective. These are NOT psychological insights, they are SPIRITUAL insights.

Question: O.K., then you have the energy connection but the soul enters somewhere right around the birth process?

Answer: It can take place at different times. And that is what is difficult for us to pin down. You are looking for something hard, and we would say that it isn't. It simply isn't, because it can take place even before birth. Over-all, we feel that occurs later on, later than earlier in the gestation process. But, because of the energy and the acceptance of illusion, the APPEARANCE is that the soul arrives at the moment of conception.

But there are CHOICES, because of what happens spiritually during the pre-birth or gestation period. In other words, there is a great deal of activity and part of the problem with this information, is the idea of separation. It is the illusion that as a human being you ONLY have one life experience FOREVER; it is the illusion that there is one life and that it starts at one point and ends at another point, when actually, it is all a continuation of the same Oneness. So, the bottom line is that it doesn't matter, because such a point-to-point concept is simply compartmentalizing an on-going experience and why words FAIL to achieve the truth. This is difficult to express, because language is limiting and it fails to express the real truth... that it is ALWAYS an on-going, eternal experience. It is the eternal soul and your individualized soul as an expression of God, choosing to grow through the acceptance of illusion for its learning, its expansion and to serve humankind.

This is a very spiritual answer, we know, but it is the truth. It is the SEPARATION question, compartmentalizing ONE life that assumes that is all there is. And it is hardly that, there is so much more.

Now, from a spiritual point of view, how people CHOOSE to experience their incarnations and the judgments they put on it, are human things... how they wish to view life and death. But there is an on-going spirituality that is part of this new consciousness that we are really beginning to address, so that a LOT of this start-and-stop mentality will be diminishing dramatically, and it will be visible, you will see it. It is the start-stop mentality that makes it so hard to understand this kind of material. But there is also the idea of 'them and us,' which, as you know, exists a lot, instead of the Oneness of all. You see, part of the word 'the soul,' means that it is SOMEONE ELSE'S soul. If it is YOUR soul, your incarnation, then you would say, "Oh... it is an on-going eternal experience," because you recognize your own mortality on a deep level. That is part of the 'them' and 'us' concept that goes on.

This is a peek, that is really all it is, because words do not describe the dimensionality that you truly have, the Oneness that is always you, not the 'them and us' syndrome. You are spiritual beings, living spiritually on earth. Schoolhouse Earth is a very interesting place.

Question: But all dimensions are schoolhouses, aren't they?

Answer: Yes, but not as much as earth. In many ways, yes, certainly. As expansion goes on, we all become wiser, but, as we have stated in the first chapter of this book, within the Universe, Schoolhouse Earth has its own unique characteristics and features.
