

Religion, for this Christmas season... extractions from two references, "New Teachings" and "Anna, Grandmother of Jesus" (Text in italics are direct quotes)

The part of your holy book, called the Old Testament, refers to a time of the beginning but gives you no scientific explanation about it. Yet there is a sense in you that there has been a beginning of some kind. That is why the question torments you – for it is as if you feel the answer is there, just a hidden thought away. (Hindu teachings are more useful about this than the Jewish and Christian religions, of course.)

Much is being revealed today, however, of Humanity's origin and development with references such as The Gaia Effect by Monica Muranyi and Pleiadian Perspectives on Human Evolution by Amora Quan Yin. However, neither reference adequately addresses a human civilization before about 200,000 years ago, to which I have seen other references.

Within your earthly Bible is the statement that "Ye must become like little children to enter the kingdom of heaven." That is true merely because children are open to learning whereas most adult earth dwellers are puffed up with self-importance based upon the fact that your society says they have studied and are therefore knowledgeable; they are the so-called experts of it all. In fact, very few such experts, especially in the areas of what you call science, know much at all. Historians are even harder pressed to fit together pieces of a puzzle that clearly lack a majority of the pieces. How, then, can such incomplete evidence be examined and explained by those who believe they understand it?

HA! "Experts" I address this topic in another short article. But who is to decide just who is an "expert" in spiritual development? Those that have studied the religious writings of other humans through the centuries, or the garbage man or grounds-keeper that has practiced meditation and the art of quietly “going within” for a long period of time? The church obviously considers the religious scholar as “spiritual” without consideration of quiet inner development, a major tenant of the Gnostics that the church managed to wipe off the face of the earth, old men, women and children.

My most serious evaluation of the present Christian churches is that many sects do not acknowledge such ideas (as channeling Spirit) nor do they understand prophecy and direct revelation by God. Yet when a human being is connected to the higher truth in Spirit, then indeed she or he hears the voice for God! And is led to the future action which is most appropriate and loving. I wish to say that there are those in the church groups who practice this principle to the best of their ability, but there are many who have separated themselves from those of other races, nationalities, beliefs and religions. I say to you, each one examine your conscience. I ask you to listen to the voice of God within you, the voice that will lead you into the activities you must do immediately.

I herewith issue a last pardon to every child and adult on this planet -- something I am empowered to do because I overcame negative thinking and returned fully conscious to God, fully Christed. (This means I never doubt the power, truth, and love of our Creator.) But each soul has free will choice to accept or reject. I once said, "Go and sin no more." I remind you that -- this means have no further doubt, no lack of love.

Today's churches must change. They have deified me instead of encouraging each child of God to go into his/her own inner soul sanctuary and bring forth God's empowering energy which could then be joined in concert with others of like intention. Today I advise you that any church official who does not drop meaningless ritual and lead its members to quiet times with their souls must face the effect of this behavior.

Very true, Christianity has deified Jesus, the man, instead of the message he brought and his resurrection, proof of life everlasting, also confirmed by various mediums today that can now, in today's tolerant if not fully accepting environment, publicly confirm life beyond the veil. And the "meaningless ritual" is reference to the church's "pomp and circumstance" originally designed by the church to impress (and better control) the illiterate and uninformed.

Page 188:

I, The Christ, can do nothing to save those who do not acknowledge and demonstrate the truth of their inner beauty. Christians, hear this. You who believe you are born again yet act self-righteously superior had better evaluate your state of purity and surrender your attitude to one of true service and assistance during this time of Tribulation. Let your test be how well you can truly love all and try to assist them. Judge not. The cost is high.

As of today every soul is notified of this opportunity of spiritual growth, self-knowledge, and service.

"Service." Another HA! What do humans know of "service" except those that work to help others for little pay or simply to volunteer? It is common to call military indentured servitude as "service" but that "vocation" is anything but "service!" To better understand the reference of "service," I challenge the reader to "go inside: any domesticated animal or even an "inanimate" object (as I have been, inadvertently placed there) to sense it's innate purpose...THAT is "service."

From “Anna, Grandmother of Jesus,” by Claire Heartsong, 2002, Reread in Dec. '21:

To begin with, a quote from page 336:

Yeshua told us that he never intended to be worshipped nor create a religion centered around him, nor did he desire to create a dynasty of earthly rulers.

Again, the “church” is an artificial (man-made) institution designed to control money and power, as any true history of the church’s popes will testify. The Reformation was as much about theology as against deep corruption in the core of the church... something that is STILL a problem.

By placing themselves as intermediaries between the seeker and God, the priesthood sought control over people’s ability to have direct knowing of God within.

page 140 (Christ was not born “in a manger!”):

Joseph sat her (Mary Anna, the mother-to-be of Yeshua ben Joseph – i.e., Jesus) on Elizabeth’s faithful donkey, and we made haste to Elizabeth’s small upper room which was situated above a stable...

Yeshua (Jesus) was born in the sign of Aries, about one hour after midnight on the twenty-first day of Nisan, according to the Jewish calendar, which corresponds to early April of 4 BC, according to your Gregorian calendar.

(Nisan is the name given to it in the Tanakh and later in the Talmud, which is called “Rosh HaShana”, “the new year” for kings and pilgrims. There are 30 days in a month. The Gregorian calendar usually dictates that Nisan falls between March and April.)

The Bible isn’t clear about a date of birth (there is widespread disagreement between “experts” even about the date, reflecting a pagan holiday and probably inserted sometime in the 300+ years before the scripture was “frozen”), and the location of a manger is clearly artificial, again attributable to the 300+ years of uncontrolled transcriptions.

Page 246, Contrary to church doctrine, Jesus WAS NOT celibate:

Responding to the community's questioning looks and self-conscious smile, Yeshua announced his formal betrothal to his beloved Mary (Magdalene), which would occur on the November full moon. So it was that two years after marrying Ahmed, Mary Anna, invited close family members to attend a simple, yet elegant betrothal ceremony for Yeshua and Mary Magdalene in her home in Nazareth. Glad to have the loving assistance of her older children, a radiant Mary Anna held her year old son, John Mark, on a swollen lap, pregnant with her ninth child. After the festivities, Yeshua and Mary Magdalene announced that they would soon be departing to the Orient. All of the companions who had gone to Egypt with Yeshua agreed that they would also travel with them.

.. he did not suffer to pay any form of debt.

With reference to Page 336, the church has gone with the adage of “kill the messenger” rather than paying due attention to the message.

In fact, from references throughout this book, Jesus, with long training in India and through Egypt's long line of spiritual, adept-training/development pyramids, each pyramid's priests addressing a slightly different purification and training, Jesus was an adept, very capable of bi-location, levitating and teleportation, as were “the select” of the day, including his grandmother Anna. Ref page 309, during the crucifixion:

As our consciousness connected, I could feel that my grandson registered no pain as his vital signs completely ceased. Yeshua was not poisoned as some have postulated, but fully utilized the mastery he had gained from many years of initiation and practice. I saw that his silver cord connecting his physical body and soul were still attached, even though he appeared dead to the uninitiated eye of the gross (3-D) physical dimension. (underlining, mine ~ Don Chapin)

Also, (from page 294), as “modern” science has shown, human hands could not sustain the nailing through the palms, stipulated by church doctrine, and this was apparently well-known, probably through the many Roman crucifixion experiences of the day, Ref. page 294: Mary (Magdeline, now Jesus' wife) applied the sacred ointment to Yeshua's feet, palms and wrists, heart and head, paying particular attention to the crucifixion points in his wrists and feet. (underlining, mine ~ Don Chapin)

Pages 251-252, Yeshua's and Mary's baptisms:

John solemnly raised his right arm, signifying that he was now acting as a witness to Yeshua's obedience and humility, which was an example for all. The sunlight continued to illuminate as though it were a stage spotlight. As the heavens opened, John announced that he had heard the word of God the Father saying that He was well pleased in His son. He also confided that God the Mother, the Holy Shekinah, had descended and rested upon the Chosen One as a dove.

So, in like manner, was Yeshua's baptism recorded in your Holy Bible account. However, no mention is made about Mary Magdalene. I, therefore, add my witness that she also went to be baptized by John and thereby to set an example that she was equal with her mate. Few recognized her as an adept or what she was doing at that time.

However, many wondered when the same signs that occurred with Yeshua were seen and heard following her baptism when she rose up out of the water. Then all of the other disciples who were present were baptized with John's assistance. (underlining mine ~Don Chapin) Thus, a remarkable day ended and a new chapter in Yeshua's public life began.

After a time of solitude, cleansing and fasting, Yeshua and Mary Magdalene gathered their support team that you call the twelve disciples. However, it has been removed from your records that these twelve men also had female counterparts. As I indicated earlier, after their return from the Orient, those companions who had been preparing for their work with Yeshua, began to find their appropriate mates who could provide the required feminine balance that Yeshua and Mary Magdalene insisted upon having.

So it was that the number of the close inner circle began to grow until there were twelve men and twelve women. And, then, as the populace began to hear of the miracles and teachings that Yeshua and Mary Magdalene wrought, the circles of twelve men and twelve women multiplied so that the required assistance to those who sought healing of bodies and souls could receive in equal measure. Although I did not have a mate to whom I was married, I also became one who a member of the second circle of twelveI men and twelve women disciples. Over the next four years, the twelve multiplied to total 144 - 72 male and 72 female dedicated disciples. (underlining mine, Don Chapin)

Obviously, the Catholic church has never and probably WILL NEVER admit that Jesus AND his disciples were all married!!
